

Roxbury, April 3, 1871.

My Dear Friend:

Please accept the enclosed tickets, and use them as you like. I shall not be able to attend the Concert. My dear wife has just had another paralytic attack, but the symptoms to-day are more favorable. My own health has been very much impaired for the last six months, but I am now better.

Hoping that all is going well with you and your family, I remain,
Yours, as at the beginning even unto the end,
Wm. Lloyd Garrison.
Wm. C. Nell.
